Good Morning All,

Bad news and good news!

Bad news first - no Adoration today as I stated in the morning message yesterday. I typed that on Tuesday night for the Wednesday message.

Good News: tomorrow, Friday, February 5th is First Friday so there will be Adoration following Friday morning Mass!

1. Today's Readings: Thursday of the Fourth Week in Ordinary Time | USCCB

2. The RE Corner with Jan Heithaus: Our next "daughter" virtue of prudence is understanding. This is a short article, as are many of the others, giving us a chance to consider each of these in light of the cardinal virtue of prudence that we have been studying with Kyle Clement.

3. Quote of the Day: "Understanding is the reward of faith. Therefore, seek not to understand that you may believe, but believe that you may understand." St. Augustine of Hippo

St. Augustine of Hippo, Pray for Us!
St. Joseph, Pray for Us!

Second “Daughter” Virtue of Prudence

Understanding refers to the “right estimate” about something that has happened, literally to “stand under” the objective truth and look up at it to grasp it with our intellect. Since prudence is right reason applied to action, we must be able to form conclusions about the memories we have retained and are processing. We understand universal principles, meaning we can place our own memories into a systematic whole of reality around us. Our lives occur in the context of other lives; therefore, our memories are affected by and affect others. Understanding is also a gift of the Holy Spirit, so with an interior light (clarity) we assess our experiences. To try to understand reality without the light of faith (a theological virtue) is like trying to see in the dark.
